Beware The Danger Spots

The inauguration throughout Canada of new social services, and the extension of social services already existing, are policies to which it is now clear all political parties in Parliament are definitely committed. Since the beginning of the present century there has been a steady growth, not only in Canada but in all countries in the number and scope of these services of a social character, and it is now evident that the people of this Dominion are in favor of more and still larger and comprehensive services of this character.

This development is in line with modern trends and the new conception that all the people are responsible for the welfare of each individual citizen. We refer to this as a new conception, yet it is as old as civilization itself. Man is his brother's keeper and if and when man fails to discharge that responsibility to his fellowmen, then the very civilization which protects him will collapse. So it is that the great majority of people will be found to welcome the introduction and enlargement of a national programme of social services.

There are, however, one or two danger spots in connection with such a programme which the Canadian people will be well advised to recognize at the outset. These services are designed to be helpful to us as individuals and as a nation; let us therefore beware that they do not actually prove harmful.

The first danger to avoid is that in our enthusiasm and commendable desire to provide social services, and to establish them upon a generous scale, we do not override it, and embark upon programmes which may prove to be beyond the financial capacity of the Canadian people to maintain. Social services such as old age pensions, mother's allowances, unemployment insurance, free medical services, etc., will cost an enormous amount of money annually. Some of these services are already costing the Federal and Provincial Governments many millions of dollars, but present expenditures are undoubtedly small in comparison with the cost of proposals now being advanced.

Each and every one of these social services can be provided and made possible by just one method, and that is taxation. That is, the community as a whole must through the payment of taxes provide the money which will be distributed through one social service or another to the people who are in need of such service. If fifty million dollars are required for, say, the payment of old age pensions throughout Canada, then taxes which will yield fifty million in revenue to the government must be imposed and paid by the people. There is no other way. This fact must be recognized, together with the further fact that there is a limit beyond which people cannot pay taxes, and any social or other service which depends upon government taxes beyond that limit will meet itself in difficulty.

Once established, experience has proven that these social services grow very rapidly and that expenditures largely increase. This experience indicates a second danger spot. It is that so long as individual man and woman are required to look out for themselves and plan for their future, they will, as a rule, work, exercise some degree of thrift, and save against sickness and old age. In a worst, self preservation will be one of the guiding rules of their life. But once it becomes an accepted and established fact that people will be provided for whether they are at work or not, that the community will care for them and all their ills if and when sick, and that when they die, then there is grave danger that the incentive which is now the great driving force in our human nature will become less keen, weaker and gradually die.

QUICKEST METHOD TO RELIEVE A COLD

Follow Directions to Ease Pain and Discomfort Almost Instantly

Fig. 2 Aspirin Tablets

When you have a cold, remember the simple treatment pictured here—prescribed by doctors everywhere today as the quick, safe way.

Because of Aspirin's quick-disintegrating property, Aspirin "takes hold"—almost instantly.

Just take Aspirin and drink plenty of water... every 2 to 4 hours the first day—less often afterward... If throat is sore, use the Aspirin gargle.

But be sure you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin Tablet. This is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

Aspirin Tablets are a third of a glass of water and gargle. This is the quick, safe way.

Champion Bricklayer

Philip Lancaster, 24-year-old foreman in a brickyard at Hull, England, lays claim to the title of being the world's champion bricklayer. He laid 3,000 bricks in four hours, a record, he says. In the first hour he laid 808, a little better than 19 a minute.

HE FELT MISERABLE AFTER MEALS

Acute Indigestion Relieved by Kruschen

The treatment which put this man right must surely be worth trying in every case of indigestion. Read what he says:

"Two years ago I suffered very much from indigestion, loss of appetite, and a most severe pain in my back. Food roared in my stomach. I felt most miserable after meals; and had no desire or appetite for them. A friend advised me to try Kruschen Salts. I did so, and I am most happy to testify that after a short time I felt the greatest relief. I continued taking Kruschen till I felt myself quite better and a new man. I feel as light-hearted as I did twenty years ago."—W. B.

What Kruschen did for him will do for everybody else who suffers from indigestion as he did. The fact is that the "little daily dose" of Kruschen first stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion, and then ensures a complete, regular and unflinching elimination of all waste matter every day.

New Gold Strike

Sensational Discovery On The North Shore Of Lake Athabasca

Three aeroplanes are busy bringing down diamond drill equipment and supplies to what is hailed as a sensational new gold strike at Beaver Lodge, on the north shore of Lake Athabasca.

Already there are more than 200 men at the camp, hastily constructed, and more stakers are on their way. Ten dog teams recently left Fort Chipewyan for the scene of the discovery.

All reports say that Beaver Lodge is the greatest gold discovery in Canada in many years.

TELLS EXPERIENCE BEFORE A NOTARY

Mrs. Albert Aubrey, 1605 Maisonneuve St., Montreal, relates in a sworn statement how Fruit-A-Tives helped her health. She now enjoys life after years of poor health and she may be sure of its truth, Mrs. Aubrey tells of her experience in a statement made under oath. She says:—"I was troubled for years with dizzy headaches. My bowels did not function regularly. I had no appetite. I had no sleep. It was difficult for me to do my work. I started taking Fruit-A-Tives. In a very short time my health became greatly improved. I now enjoy life more than ever before I learned about Fruit-A-Tives." ## Little Journeys In Science

COSMIC RAYS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Glass becomes negatively charged when rubbed with catkin, but positively charged when rubbed with silk. Also, a strip of celluloid becomes negatively charged when driven between the fingers. In order to detect and measure the electric charges on any substance scientists have devised an instrument known as the electro-scope. A simple type of electro-scope consists of a bottle with a paraffin stopper, through which runs a piece of glass tubing. Passed through the glass tube is a piece of brass or copper wire from which are suspended two strips of gold leaf. A ball made of tinfoil is attached to the other end of the wire and is, of course, outside the bottle just above the paraffin stopper. Whenever the ball is given either a negative or a positive charge the leaves fly apart in proportion to the amount of the charge. A rubber comb rubbed on a cat becomes negatively charged and if the comb is placed on the tinfoil ball some of this charge is imparted to the electro-scope and the leaves will fly apart. Since the charge is negative, another negative charge will cause the leaves to spread still farther apart, whereas a positive charge will cause the leaves to fall together before again flying apart. In this way the kinds of charges may be determined. When even the heads of electroscopes are charged it is observed that the gold leaves always come together again. This means that some electrically charged particles from the atmosphere are neutralizing the charges on the leaves. Scientists set out to discover what was causing this discharge of an electro-scope and found that it was due to certain rays which came to the earth from outer space. They are called cosmic rays.

Many attempts have been made to trace the natural leak or discharge of an electro-scope. These attempts have always failed despite the use of the most perfect insulators and the protection of the electro-scope by lead shields, several feet in thickness. These experiments suggested that there exists an unusually penetrating radiation of feeble intensity. Scientists have carried electroscopes to points near the two poles of the earth, at the equator, and at various other latitudes. Electroscopes and similar indicating and recording devices have been sent up into the air in sounding balloons to altitudes of over 20 miles, and have been carried to altitudes of 25,000 feet by airplanes in various localities and have been taken to high mountains as well as to depths as great as 1,000 feet in lakes. All experiments show that the rays come from above the earth and so they have been called cosmic rays. Outstanding among the various investigators in this work are two American scientists, Millikan and Compton.

Duro Stone summed up affairs fairly accurately as he headed for Seco. That summary included Joe Carr, Frank Crews, the Hour-glass, Dustin, Kane (whom he knew not) and . . . Edith! He grinned a little as he realized that she was not to be judged by any ordinary standards. Yet . . .

THIS Great Canadian Illustrated Weekly—produced in Canada by Canadians—for Canadians—one of the world's greatest newspapers—is as Canadian as Hockey and quite as vigorous—with news of the world, stories and articles by world-famed writers and artists and by Canadians of international reputation. A clean, happy, youthful, illustrated newspaper. 5 sections—in fact, 5 newspapers in one—every week—Entertainment—Amusement—Information for every member of the family.

Canada to Mexico and now I've come to the end of the trail. . . Suddenly he knew that, if Edith Carr was at the end of that trail to welcome him, he wanted no other trail. "All the same that man Dustin's a dirty hound," he muttered. "Now to try to find out what I want. . . here's Seco. . ."

Seco was an ordinary cow-town with a courthouse in the middle of a square from which the rest of the town radiated. He parked in front of a small frame building that bore the sign:

SECO COURIER
Evan Jameson, Editor and Prop.

"If any information is to be had it ought to be in a newspaper office," he muttered. "If he hasn't got an encyclopedia I don't know who will have one."

A slouching man rose from a half-recumbent position across a desk and eyed him as he entered. Stone grinned affably and thrust out a hand.

"My name's Stone," he said politely. "I work for Carr at the Hour-glass. Are you Mr. Jameson by any chance?"

"Not by chance, by design and for my sins I think," said Jameson with a sour grin. "What can I do for you?"

"Have you got an encyclopedia in the office and if so, will you let me consult it?"

"Over on the half yonder," said Jameson. "Help yourself."

He watched curiously as Stone took down volume after volume. When he replaced the last with a sigh of disappointment, Jameson became frankly curious.

"Can't you find it?" he asked.

"It's not in the book. . ."

Mr. Jameson. Have you lived long in this part of the country?"

Jameson went to the dusty window and pointed to the great bulk of Myrant Peak that thrust above the skyline.

"When I first came here," he said, "that peak was just a hole in the ground. It's grown up since then. I haven't. You say your name's Stone?"

"Yes, you say the man who slapped a drink of whiskey in Cora's eyes in the 'Reckon I did'?"

"I reckon I do," said Stone, grinning. "Sometimes I'm mighty careless where I throw my hot-leads. Why?"

"It was you, too, who had the quarrel with Sam Dustin and who dumped him into Rock Springs, hey?"

Stone nodded. He wondered how they would Jameson had learned of that. Jameson enlightened him.

"My wife heard it. . . from a friend and she told me. I haven't said a word about it. I thought it best. Maybe I can help you out here. You want in the encyclopedia?"

"First of all. . . Do you know an old desert-rat named Kane?"

"Who's that? Kane? Old man shammy-axle Kane? They call him that because he always wears a shirt made of chamcha skin. He says he can use it with his mercury to try out his gold ore. . . when he finds it. Of course I know him."

"Is he straight?"

"Absolutely. That is, he's perfectly honest except in minor matters. Let's see these questions mean."

Stone thrust a hand deep into his coat-pocket and kept it there while he studied Jameson. He liked what he saw and his face broke into a pleasant smile.

"I've been on the Hour-glass payroll for four months now," he said irrelevantly.

"It's a good outfit," said Jameson. "I'm sorry they've had so much hard luck. Now take Joe Carr. He's a fine old fellow but he has dropped behind in the race for money and he will never catch up. He just don't know what it's all about. He's got a good outfit, too, but a good body can't help if the head is gone. Of course he's got a good man in Frank Crews. They don't make many men like Crews."

"And Edith. . ."

Jameson's grim face instantly lit with a light that there was no mistaking. Even the silence answered Stone's half-formed question.

"Yeah," said Jameson quietly. "Edith. . . What about her?"

"Crews told me that, while Edith was out riding with me, that man Dustin came over to the Hour-glass. He saw old man Carr and told him that he wants to marry Edith. . ."

Evan Jameson, the tanky editor of the northern paper, that certainly could not support him, threw himself across his desk and grabbed at Stone's arm.

"Tell me that again," he said earnestly. "See if I'm hearin' right. Stone told him curtly and every word sank in. . . Jameson nodded once or twice and seated himself on the edge of the desk.

"You listen to me," he said quietly. "You've been some months at the Hour-glass. You must know how things are out there. . ."

Stone shook his head.

"It stops up all the tubes and chokes the person to death. You've got to be right on the job. . ."

Mabel was played out. . . She was sick, too. . . The boy was taken sick in the night on Mabel. . . Well, she says frankly that she lost her nerve and didn't know what to do. . .

"She stood there watchin' the boy choke to death before her eyes. . . That's when Edith Carr came in! She saw what was takin' place. . . She saw Mabel couldn't help herself. . . She pushed Mabel out of the room, pulled the rubber tube off a hot-water bottle and stuck it down the kid's throat. . . Then. . ."

There was no need. After one brief glance at Jameson, Stone knew that he could "go the limit."

"I'll tell you why I want to find old Man Kane," he said.

He perched on the desk and told Jameson of his first row with Dustin. He told him of the fight with Cora and Gray in the hills above the ranch. He told how he found old Kane's lost notebook and of the trip that he took with Edith. Finally he laid on the desk the pieces of rock from the mine.

"I can get Buxton right here in town to assay 'em," said Jameson. "He'll not talk if I tell him not to. . . Go on. . ."

"Well. . . we were riding home when Dustin, who had been at the Hour-glass, came peltin' down the trail and tried to ride me down in the gopher cabaloo. His horse must have slipped or something for Dustin was upset. (Jameson's eyes gleamed at that.) While he was tynin' there unconscious, I went through his pockets. I found a note from Joe Carr to Program of the Seco bank for eleven thousand dollars. Program had sold to Dustin. Then, when I got to the Hour-glass, Crews told me that Dustin had come there to tell Carr that he wants to marry Edith. . ."

Jameson's voice took a twirl edge. "Go on. . ."

"Then I took the car and came here. . ."

"You're looking for something in an encyclopedia," said Jameson.

Stone grinned. "You stick to the point, don't you? Look here. . ."

And he laid on the littered table an envelope and the cigarette that he had taken from Dustin's pocket. He emptied the envelope on the desk and figured the contents—three or four stumps of burned cigarettes and a little pile of brown dust. Then he picked up the whole cigarette that he had taken from Dustin.

"These are not tobacco," he said. "I found the stumps in the camp where Kane must have gone with Dustin. Or else Dustin was there alone. I don't know. I want to find Kane. This stuff must be marahuna. . ."

"I know it. I know it is not tobacco in any form. Do you know it? I want to know if marahuna is the book."

The Roots of the Wheat Plant

The roots of the wheat plant usually penetrate into the soil for a depth of 3 to 6 feet with a great mass of rooting material. This marvelous root system completely exhausts all the moisture that the soil will give up for a depth of 3 or 6 feet by harvest time. The roots transform into wheat all the moisture and plant food that is available. It takes between 30 and 60 tons of water to make each bushel of wheat, or from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds of water for each pound of wheat. The yield is usually in proportion to the amount of moisture that falls and can be conserved in the soil. The University of Saskatchewan has dug up a wheat plant with all its roots. The Searle Grain Company has made a nice photograph of the plant and roots. One will be sent free to any person asking for it. Address: Research Department, Searle Grain Company, Winnipeg.
